

MUSICAL ARTS INSTITUTE'S CHAMBER STRING ENSEMBLE

CHICAGO URBAN CHAMBER STRING ENSEMBLE

The Musical Arts Institute of Chicago Presents its Chamber String Ensemble. This group of young African American String instrument artists exists to exhibit excellence in classical music and to serve the community as a beacon of excellence and inspiration.

This group of young musicians also endeavors to expose their audiences to the beauty and artistry of classical music composed by African Americans or composers of African descent.

As this chamber ensemble tours, they are aware that they are exposing their community to music and instruments that are fairly obscure. One of the main objectives of the ensemble is to enlighten our community, and the greater African American public, to classical music and instruments, which have been misconstrued. The notion that African Americans can perform classic music is an idea that this ensemble promotes.

Most importantly, we offer music to the delight of all who hear it, and serves as a sense of pride of our community.
